Punctual attendance at school is vital for learning and promotes essential life skills. Here are some tips to improve punctuality.

- Encourage your child with your support to get their belongings ready the night before
- Make sure that their uniform is ready before they need it
- Allow a spare 5 minutes in your schedule for those moments when things go wrong
- A timely start to the day enables your child to be ready to learn
- Bear in mind the negative impact your child being late has on them.
- Your child's lateness will also disturb the rest of the class.

Working together to support your child's Good Attendance

Simon's attendance rate is always around $90 \%$.
He thinks this is pretty good!
However this actually means...

|  |  |  |  |  |

Absent half a day every week

$90 \%$ attendance means that he is absent from lessons for the equivalent of one half-day every week.
If Simon continues to attend for only $90 \%$ of the time, then over five years he will miss the equivalent of one-half of a school year. This is classed as persistent absence.

We want all our children to be good attenders. Here are some tips to improve attendance.

- Follow the guidelines for infection but be assured that your school will contact you if your child is sufficiently unwell to remain at school.
- Encourage your child to be resilient and learn the difference between feeling a little under the weather or tired and actually being ill.
- Organise late nights, special outings and family events on Friday evenings and Saturdays - so that your child is ready for school on Monday morning.
- Remember that days off in school time are only granted under exceptional circumstances as laid down by each school's Governing Body
- Remember - each day that is missed makes it that much harder for your child to catch up with their class.
